King and Queen streets run together at the east end of the town. There Washington stationed himself, on the left of Forest's battery, which was immediately unlimbered and opened up a hot fire. The general's position was much exposed, and after his horse had been wounded his officers repeatedly requested him to fall back to a safer point, which he peremptorily refused to do. The joy of battle sparkled in his eyes. He had instinctively chosen that position on the field from whence he could best see and direct the conflict, and nothing but a successful charge of the enemy could have moved him to retire.

A few of the cooler headed men among the Hessians had rallied some of the Lossburg regiment, and two guns had been run out into the street and pointed up toward the place where Washington stood to form a battery which might, could it have been served, have held the American army in check until such time as the startled Germans could recover their wits and make a stand. General Washington pointed them out to the officer of the advance guard, which had already done such good service, with a wave of his sword. The little band of men, led by Captain Washington and Lieutenant Monroe, charged down upon the guns, which the party had not had time to load. A scattering volley received them. Captain Washington and Monroe and one of the men were wounded. Another fell dead. The men hesitated. Talbot sprang to the head of the column in obedience to the general's nod, and they rallied, advanced on the run, and the guns were immediately captured.

Meanwhile the fire of Stark's riflemen could be heard at the other end of the town. St. Clair's brigade held the bridge. The regiment Von Knyphausen lost a few precious moments endeavoring to extricate its guns, which had become mired in the morass near the bridge, and then charged upon St. Clair. But it was too late. Von Dechow was seriously wounded, and when the regiment saw itself taken in the flank by Sargeant's brigade it retired in disorder, though some few men escaped by the fords.

At this juncture Rahl re-formed his scattered troops in the apple orchard. He seems to have had an idea of retreating toward Princeton at first, with the two regiments still under his command. At any rate he also lost precious moments by hesitation. It was even then too late to effect a successful retreat, for Washington, foreseeing the possibility, had promptly sent Hand's Pennsylvania riflemen along the Pennington road back of the town to check any move in that direction. As fast as the other brigades of Greene's column came up they were sent down through the streets of the town, until Stirling, in the lead, joined Sullivan's men. Rahl's brigade was practically surrounded, though he did not know it. The commander completely lost his head, though he was a courageous man, brave to rashness, and a veteran soldier who had hitherto dis-drums and bugle calls, including the gorgeous banner of the Anspachers, the Von Lossburg regiment.

Of the Continentals only two were killed and four wounded, while upward of a hundred of the Hessians were killed and wounded, among the killed being Rahl and Von Dechow, the first and second in command. The whole of this brilliant affair scarcely occupied an hour.

Colonel Rahl, supported by two sergeants, presented his sword.

As none of the other divisions had got across, it was scarcely safe for Washington to remain on the east side of the river in the presence of the vastly superior forces of the enemy, which would be concentrated upon him without delay. So, after giving the men a much needed rest, securing their booty and burying the dead, the evening found the little army, with its prisoners, retracing its steps toward the ford and its former camping ground.

But with what different feelings the hungry, wornout, tattered mass of men marched along in the bitter night! The contrast between the well clothed and well fed Hessians and their captors was surprising but not less striking than that between their going out and coming in. Little recked the frozen men of the hardships of the way. They had shown the world that they possessed other capabilities than facility in retreating, and no American army, however small or feeble, would ever again be despised by any foe.

The return passage was made without incident, save that just on the crest of the hills leading down to the ford the general, who was in advance again, noticed a suspicious looking, snow covered mound by the roadside. Riding up to it, one of his aids dismounted and uncovered the body of a man, a Continental soldier, frozen to death. The cold weapon was grasped tightly in the colder hand. A little farther on there was another body asleep in the snow—another soldier! The last was that man of the headquarters guard who had spoken of his little children at home on Christmas day. They would wait a long time before they saw him again. He had been willing to fight the whole English army! Ah, well, a sterner foe than any who marched beneath the red flag of Great Britain had grappled with him, and he had been defeated—but he had won his freedom!

For forty hours now that little band of men had marched and fought, and when it reached its camp at midnight the whole army was exhausted. The only man among them all who preserved his even calmness and was apparently unaffected by the hardships of the day was the commander himself—the iron man. Late into the night he dictated and wrote letters and orders, to be dispatched in every direction in the morning. The successful issue of his daring adventure entailed yet further responsibilities, and the campaign was only just begun. As for himself, the world now knew him for a soldier. And a withered old man in the palace of the Sans Souci in Berlin, who had himself known victories and defeats, who had himself stood at bay, facing a world in arms so successfully that men called him "The Great," called this and the subsequent campaign the finest military exploit of the age!

NEGRO LIBERTY PARTY

Colored Candidates in the Field on a National Ticket.

St. Louis, July 8.—After reconsidering its action in endorsing the candidacy of President Roosevelt for reelection in place of making its own nominations, the National Negro Liberty party nominated William T. Scott of East St. Louis and W. C. Payne of Warrenton, Va., for president and vice president respectively, of the United States.

The platform advocates unrestricted suffrage for all American citizens, without distinction or qualifications. It asks for the addition of two negro regiments to the regular army, the promotion of the volunteer and regular officers of the Spanish-American war, and pensions. It urges non-interference in the affairs of the far East until the government is able to protect its citizens at home, advocates the government ownership of all public carriers, and self-government for the District of Columbia, and appeals to all religious denominations to assist in the suppression of "lynch law."

CLOSING SCENES

Democratic National Convention Is Now In Its Final Throes.

BIG HALL IS PACKED

Interest in the Contest Waging at St. Louis Creates Unprecedented Demand For Tickets.

The Nomination of Judge Alton B. Parker For First Place Is Now Conceded.

St. Louis, July 8.—With the adoption of a platform of principles upon which the party will stand during the coming campaign the Democratic national convention today cleared the decks for the great event of the week, the nomination of standard bearers for the pending political fray. With the clearing of the atmosphere by the vote taken late yesterday afternoon on the report of the committee on credentials, which was the first test of strength of the ALTON B. PARKER.

Parker and anti-Parker forces, all doubts of the New York jurist's success were dissipated and the nomination of Alton B. Parker is now almost universally conceded, but one ballot probably being sufficient to accomplish this result.

The vice presidential question has today attracted general attention among the delegates and a half dozen or more booms are under full way. The result of the vote for running mate is clouded in speculation and there are as many predictions as there are "favorite sons" before the convention, and these are not few in number.

Though the great Coliseum has been crowded beyond all former precedents during the past two days, the demand for tickets of admission today was simply overwhelming and the convention hall is packed almost literally to a point of suffocation. The discomfort due to the heat and the faulty ventilation has resulted in several prostrations, some of which may have a serious outcome.

SECOND DAY'S DOINGS

Vote on Credentials Report Shows First Test of Strength.

St. Louis, July 8.—The Democratic national convention yesterday adopted the report of the committee on rules, credentials and permanent organization, and at 6:20 adjourned until 10 o'clock today.

During the day several speeches were made, chief of which was William Jennings Bryan's effort to overthrow the report of the credentials committee and seat contesting delegates from Illinois. The controversy was ended by the rejection of the minority report of the committee by a vote of 647 yeas to 299 nays. Though Mr. Bryan's speech and his appearance on the floor of the convention was cheered far beyond any previous demonstration, it made few votes. The alignment of delegates proved the correctness of previous estimates of the division between those who favor the radicals and those who are supporting the conservative element which is now in control.

When the result of the contest was announced the report of the committee on permanent organization was made. Representative Champ Clark, who was chosen permanent chairman, addressed the convention. He had prepared and furnished to the press a speech of great length. The hour was so late when he gained the platform, however, that he spoke about 300 words and left his audience to read the remainder.

The ovation given to Mr. Bryan was one of the greatest ever transpiring at any of the notable events for which the immense Coliseum is famed. It continued for twelve minutes with so much fervor that Temporary Chairman Williams and all of his assistants, including a hundred policemen, were unable to restore order. Quiet came from the convention only after the Parker forces joined in and by persistent efforts turned the tide by a counter great demonstration for the New Yorker, so that the favorite candidate for the nomination for president finally reaped the harvest of enthusiasm sown for Mr. Bryan.

The inconsistencies of a great unorganized body, such as is formed by the spectators, delegates and alternates making up a great political convention was aptly illustrated in this gathering. Thousands of throats cheered Bryan as lustily as they did when he was chosen eight years ago as the Democratic candidate for president. The great tumult to the initiated would have been proof positive that the Nebraskan, more than ever, was the hero of his party. And yet, when a banner bearing the inscription "Georgia's Parker Delegation" was taken to the platform and held aloft where all could see, the applause was directed that way. Without pausing in their enthusiasm the great throng of men and women shouting the name of Bryan switched to Parker as if their only ambition was to cheer and make a great noise.

The morning session of the convention was without material interest except for the dissensions caused by objection to that part of the report from the committee on rules which provides for the seating of the delegates sent by insular possessions.

Several delegates discussed the report and roll-call was asked for, but the report was adopted finally without resorting to that method of determining the action of the convention. It remained for the afternoon session to create that degree of strife which makes conventions interesting to the masses. This was the contest relating to the Illinois delegation. It was known that Mr. Bryan would take an active part in the matter at odds believed to be overwhelmingly against him. The galleries and other space in the hall allotted to spectators showed how great a drawing card he is. Practically every seat was occupied and the aisles were crowded. On the platform sat distinguished guests in greater number than at any previous session. The increased attendance to a great extent was because of the fact that Mr. Bryan was slated to speak on a matter sure to engender feeling and spirited debate.

When Mr. Bryan entered the convention hall at about the hour the convention was to be called to order the first sound of applause in the vicinity of the Nebraska delegation drew every gaze in that direction. As if to make up for the tardy welcome extended to Mr. Bryan on Wednesday, a great number opened the cheering simultaneously from the center galleries. That there should be no misunderstanding in regard to who was the object of the ovation, the Nebraska delegates wrenched from the floor the standard marking their location in the hall and waved the banner high above all others. That was a signal for Mr. Bryan's following to congregate about their leader. Adopting the Nebraska delegation's example, other anti-Parker states tore loose their standards and rallied about Mr. Bryan.

For a short time some degree of organization was maintained among the majority of delegates, but the sight of great human walls, forming the galleries, shouting themselves hoarse, throwing and waving hats, umbrellas and coats, and many persons on the elevated platform yelling and motioning encouragement, proved too much for the more orderly delegates to withstand. They joined with the demonstrative ones until the thunderous applause was converted into a deafening roar.

As the applause opened Temporary Chairman Williams, who was ready to call the convention to order, started in to subdue it with his gavel. Soon that was drowned out completely. Seeing that he was getting no aid from his fellow convention officials, Mr. Williams contented himself with a desultory pounding with his heavy mallet, which could be seen but not heard. The confusion in the hall was unprecedented. Strong-lined admirers of the Nebraskan openly left the seats in the spectators' reservation and marched about the Nebraska delegation. The noise of the demonstration increased in volume, even after it seemed the limit of endurance must have been reached. All other displays of enthusiasm were dwarfed in comparison.

After the applause had continued unbroken for more than fifteen minutes Temporary Chairman Williams again tried to get the attention of the delegates and motioned the band to play. Again and again he signalled the musicians, only to learn a moment later that the instruments were pouring out all the volume of which they were capable. Not a note could be heard on the speaker's platform, unless it was listened for intently.

Then it was that the conservative forces turned to the aid of the chair. They started applause for Parker. His name on a purple banner proved almost as magnetic as Bryan in the flesh. From one idol to another the gathering turned. The Georgia delegation, carrying the Parker banner, marched to the platform and the cheering was increased, if that were possible. The applause was general, coming from delegates, from the galleries and other parts of the Coliseum. While the delegations participating were different in some instances from those which led the Bryan reception, the galleries did not discriminate. Every new movement was the signal for renewed efforts. The South Carolina standard was held beside the Georgia banner. Inasmuch as the South Carolina delegation was originally anti-Parker the movement was significant. Other delegations followed suit and soon the standards of Arkansas, Pennsylvania, Indiana, New Jersey, Alabama and others which could be removed from the floor were up-lifted over the platform. Some of the standards which were marched to the Parker rally a few minutes before had been a part of the Bryan demonstration. Hissing was started in the galleries when the Parker movement broke out, but it was soon effaced by the shouting masses.

KEEPING IT QUIET

Japs Maintain Veil of Secrecy Over Their Military Operations.

AN EMBARGO ON NEWS

Early Resolve on the Part of the General Staff to Keep Still Has Been Observed.

Curtain Down Over the Theater of War Will Soon Be Raised, However.

Chefoo, July 8.—Chinese who arrived here last night from Port Arthur say the Japanese forces have formed a complete cordon around the land side of the town and that they are occupying all the commanding hills within a radius of seven miles of the fortifications.

Tokio, July 8.—Operations of a paramount importance are going on within the war zone, but the government succeeds in veiling them in almost absolute secrecy. Since the occupation of Daini the government officials have been silent concerning conditions at Port Arthur. It is generally believed, however, that the Japanese army and navy are daily tightening their relentless grip on the besieged city, and that a final assault followed by the fall of the fortress is now only a matter of weeks. It is known that engagements of varying importance are constantly occurring on the hills surrounding the city. The fleet of Admiral Togo is in motion day and night and is frequently engaged, but the forces and number of guns of the besiegers, as well as their positions, details of past operations and future plans are secrets which probably will not be revealed until the final and decisive action.

Fragmentary information from various sources especially Chinese reaches Japan, but its publication here or sending it abroad is forbidden under severe penalty. To the Japanese people it is like the enactment of a great tragedy in a thronged theater upon which the curtain never is lifted.

Much concerning the siege of Port Arthur could be published with injury to the Japanese cause, but the general staff resolved to avoid aiding St. Petersburg or General Kuropatkin with a single shred of information and has placed an absolute embargo on the transmission of all news. Geographical and local conditions, both in Japan and at the seat of war, make it possible to enforce this embargo with almost complete effect. The curtain down over the theater of war, will, however, soon be raised, and it is confidently expected that the lifting will reveal the Japanese to be in possession of splendid strategic advantages with men and guns enough to carry the campaign to a successful conclusion.

AWAITING DETAILS

St. Petersburg News Confined to Meager Official Reports.

St. Petersburg, July 8.—The admiralty is awaiting further details of the unsuccessful attempt of the Japanese torpedo boat destroyers to enter Port Arthur. The admiralty does not confirm Admiral Togo's report of the sinking of a Russian guardship outside Port Arthur June 27. The officials point out that if the report is true it would have been mentioned in the dispatches brought to New Chwang recently by the Russian torpedo boat destroyer Lieutenant Burukoff, which left Port Arthur the day after the alleged sinking of the guardship.

Emperor Nicholas has received the following dispatch from General Kuropatkin under date of July 5: "Ride firing between patrols took place July 4 on the outskirts of Vafangow, nine miles southeast of Senchow and in the neighborhood of Potaltza. The Japanese patrols retired to the southward. We had only four wounded."

"In the outskirts of Siabienow on Halo heights, twelve miles south of Siadama, a Russian patrol lost two Cossacks killed and two wounded. Nine horses were disabled."

"A reconnaissance to the southward showed that there was an advance guard of 1,000 of the enemy in the outskirts of Yan Shaufen, six and a half miles southeast of Tschalma, and that there was a battalion and twelve guns and one squadron of cavalry at Diattalintza."

"More considerable forces are concentrated at Wao Fusan. According to Chinese accounts these were landed at Datchuangkhe, thirty-seven miles southwest of Takushan."

"A Cossack patrol on July 4 pushed forward to Palamatzza, five and a half miles northeast of Yamalintza, where considerable forces of the enemy were discovered."

Lieutenant General Sakharoff in a lengthy report to the general staff dated July 6, covers much the same ground as the report from General Kuropatkin. General Sakharoff gives details of a number of other minor engagements in which the Russians drove back the Japanese outposts and captured patrols, but he mentions nothing in the nature of a considerable engagement or of serious losses on either side.

Miss Nellie Holmes, treasurer of the Young Woman's Temperance Association of Buffalo, N.Y., strongly advises all suffering women to rely, as she did, upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Your medicine is indeed an ideal woman's medicine, and by far the best I know to restore lost health and strength. I suffered misery for several years, being troubled with menorrhagia. My back ached, I had bearing-down pains and frequent headaches. I would often wake from restless sleep, and in such pain that I suffered for hours before I could go to sleep again. I dreaded the long nights as much as the weary days. I consulted two different physicians, hoping to get relief, but, finding that their medicine did not seem to cure me, I tried your Vegetable Compound on the recommendation of a friend from the East who was visiting me."

"I am glad that I followed her advice, for every ache and pain is gone, and not only this, but my general health is much improved. I have a fine appetite and have gained in flesh. My earnest advice to suffering women is to put aside all other medicines and to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Miss NELLIE HOLMES, 540 No. Division St., Buffalo, N.Y. $5000 forfeit if original of above letter proving genuineness cannot be produced.

Will Bryan Swallow It? Harrisburg, Pa., July 8.—Rev. Dr. Silas C. Swallow, the Prohibition nominee for president, has sent the following telegram to William J. Bryan at St. Louis: "My Dear Bryan: Read Numbers, 10th chapter, 29th verse. Come."

Lad Strangely Missing. South Bend, Ind., July 8.—Max Medykowski, seven years old, who mysteriously disappeared on the Fourth while witnessing the parade, has still failed to return, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Medykowski, fear he has met with foul play.

Driven Out by Flood. Kansas City, Mo., July 8.—Armourdale, the packing suburb of Kansas City, Kan., has been practically deserted, most of its 5,000 citizens having been driven from their homes by the overflow of the Kaw river.

Old Confederate General Dead. Washington, July 8.—General Thos. B. Howard of the Confederate army is dead here after a brief illness, aged eighty-four years.

TERSE TELEGRAMS

The plans of the Japanese remain a mystery to the Russian commanders.

The Japanese gunboat Kaimon struck a mine and sunk in Talien-Wan bay on July 1. The Kaimon was enroute to the harbor.

Two seven-year-old Chicago boys were electrocuted by a telephone wire which had become "crossed" with an electric power wire.

Santos-Dumont, the aeronaut, has sailed for Havre. He took with him the silk covering of his airship, which was damaged recently at St. Louis.

Charles Raser and George White, aged respectively ten and nine years, were drowned at Bradford, Pa., while playing on a raft in an old reservoir.

Field Marshal Oyama, commander-in-chief of the Japanese field forces, accompanied by Generals Kodama and Fukushima and a numerous staff, has departed for the front.

The French chamber of Deputies has passed a bill regulating life insurance companies, including a provision prohibiting the insurance of children under twelve years of age.

A passenger train on the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha railroad, near Brandon, S. D., ran down a vehicle containing three children, instantly killing two boys and fatally injuring a girl.

The country is not yet ready to forget the four years of Cleveland disaster between 1893 and 1897.

What a fix the democratic party would be in if its leaders followed the Japanese plan of committing suicide when they make mistakes.

DEMOCRATIC leaders are denouncing Mr. Bryan for standing on the platform of his party. There is no other political organization in the world that places a premium on desertion.

It is reported in the press dispatches that Tom Taggart has got to the point in his ambition to be national chairman where he is ready to sacrifice the ambition of any other Indian man to succeed. He is getting desperate.

It is a queer convention of democrats that will one day go wild over the mention of Grover Cleveland's name and the very next applaud a Bryan for forty minutes. How can these two warring democrats, entirely different in their political policies, be made heroes of by the same convention.

THE TRIUMPHS OF LABOR

The Wage-Earner Has Not Yet Attained the Limit of His Privileges.
(From a Labor Day address delivered by the Hon. J. Frank Hanly at Lafayette, Sept. 1, 1900.)

"In a hundred years labor has changed the face of a continent; built cities and peopled them with countless millions; bridged the streams, felled the forests and reclaimed the prairies of half the world. This it has done for others, yet it has not been unmindful of its own needs. It has accomplished equally as much for itself."

"It is today better fed, better clothed and better housed, and better able to defend itself than ever before. Its

THE PARTY PRESS

It Must Carry the Burden of the Local Campaign.

The burden of the campaigns must be carried by the local party press. The metropolitan papers become mere manufacturing concerns whose business is to collect and sell news. They are answerable to no platform. They are guided solely by whatever is of benefit to them. We do not blame them for this. It is the trait of human nature in them. But they should not arrogate to themselves superior virtues and superior wisdom. The honest paper of the land is the partisan paper. It stands for something. It is no better and claims to be no better than the party for which it stands. It is fair, is mainly, is patriotic. And the county paper is the most sincere of all papers because its editor is always in the "great white light." He must be honest and, he it said to the honor of the fraternity, he wishes to be honest. In the campaign at hand the work of presenting argument and principles will fall to the local party press. Orators will address their thousands, but each issue of a paper reaches far more people than any orator can address in a single meeting, while the orator's facts and figures have already been gathered from some paper. The orator simply clothes them in the beauties of speech. It is the duty of every citizen in this land to be partisan. Likewise it is his duty to stand by the partisan press.—Danville Republican.

JERRY DUGGINS DIES GAME.

Jested With Guard as he Faced the Scaffold.

Jerry Duggins, the murderer of Mrs. Benjamin Ramsey and her two children at Terre Haute, February 22, was executed at the state prison at Michigan City at 12:08 Thursday night.
The Warden and his assistants entered the cell at midnight, where they found Duggins seated with the prison chaplain, and assisted him to dress. There was nothing in the prisoner's conduct to indicate that he appreciated the gravity of the situation. As he donned his clothes he chatted and jested with the men around him, and shortly before he started for the gallows he smilingly shook hands all round, and thanked the officers for having been good to him.
Earlier in the evening Duggins indulged in some grim joking with his guard, with whom he had become on friendly terms during his stay in the death chamber.
Referring to the near approach of execution Duggins said in a bantering way:
"I want you to put the rope around my neck. I'll bet you are afraid to do it."

The Enquirer correspondent says that Duggins had no requests to make and was in a serious mood but once, at which time he spoke of the triple murder he committed and said he believed he was insane at the time. He was a boarder at the Ramsey house. After a game of cards with Mrs. Ramsey on the night of the murder he appealed to her to run away with him to Seymour. When she refused to comply with his request he cut her throat with a razor and killed the children with the same weapon. Duggins' body was shipped Friday morning to relatives in this city for burial and is expected to arrive on the evening train.

Delineator for August.

In addition to entertaining fiction for leisure hours, the August Delineator contains something for each of the practical needs of woman. In dress, the latest styles are depicted, with the aid of handsome colored plates and drawings in black and white, and the movements in fashions described. The kitchen, the table, the garden the nursery, beside the lighter interests of woman, such as her reading, her clubs and other amusements, are treated from various standpoints. The literary features of the number are of the highest order. There are three stories that furnish the exact flavor that is looked for in summer reading, by Carroll Watson Rankin, Alice MacGowan and Cyrus Townsend Brady. A timely article by Edward Emerson, Jr., on "The Attitude of the Japanese Women in the War" gives some very interesting information, and is illustrated with exclusive portraits of women who are prominent in the patriotic associations of Japan. In addition, there are plans for summer cabins on seashore and mountains, and most entertaining collection of stories and pastimes for children.

Domestic Troubles.

It is exceptional to find a family where there are no domestic ruptures occasionally, but these can be lessened by having Dr. King's New Life Pills around. Much trouble they save by their great work in Stomach and Liver troubles. They not only relieve you, but cure. 25c at W. F. Peter Drug Co.

'Squire Got Excited.

From the fishing camp down the river, where "Dad" Fredericks and 'Squire Congdon are fishing and Athos Gabard and Melvin Jerrell are doing the cooking and digging bait, comes a report that Congdon got the "buck ague" while running the trotline. He was handling the oars and when his partner, who was raising the line, came to a ten-pounder on one of the hooks, the 'Squire got excited, lost control of the boat at a critical moment and the big fish got away. The 'Squire's friends are surprised that an old fisherman like him should lose his head. As a sort of punishment he was put on half rations for twenty-four hours.

Horse Training.

The exhibition by Prof. J. Beery last night at his tent on West Second street was full of interest to everyone who saw it. Prof. Beery has remarkable power over these wild animals and his horse taming has been successful beyond all the expectations of his audience. Tonight he will handle a stubborn mule among others for the evening. He takes any horse that is balky or vicious and by his method of training reduces them to gentleness. Admission 15 cents. Ladies 10 cents. Music will be furnished by the Seymour Military band.

Dr. Goodloe Resigns.

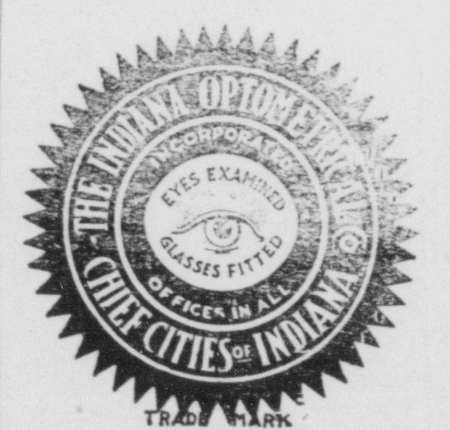

Rev. Goodloe tendered his resignation as pastor of the Presbyterian church of Vernon and North Vernon several weeks ago and it has been accepted by the two congregations. Rev. Goodloe grew into disfavor at North Vernon because he preached too pointed sermons to that city's smart set, and it is told this caused his resignation as he did not want to be forced to quit. The Vernon church employs a preacher jointly with North Vernon, hence Mr. Goodloe's resignation here.—Vernon Journal.

Grand Exhibitions in Seymour
Every Night Until July 14th

Some of the most fiery, treacherous, kicking and savage brutes ever attempted to be harnessed and driven will be taken into the arena, and with great risk to himself and his men these dangerous animals will be subdued and hitched up and taught to become useful and gentle drivers, while subjected to all manner of noises and frightful objects—clatter of tin pans, music of cow bells and horse fiddles, flying of newspapers and flags, upsetting of wagons and meeting of automobiles turning the corner unexpectedly, firing of blank cartridges, shooting crackers, etc.

The Most Thrilling and Exciting Scenes

Probably ever witnessed in Seymour and well worth twice the admission fee to all who love the horse. GREAT FUN to see the kicking, fierce plunging and striking of these maddened animals, and see them make the tin pans, that will be hung on the crupper, fly in all directions across the arena. THE EXHIBITION IS ABSOLUTELY MORAL in every particular. Ladies and all classes greatly enjoy the performance.

CANCEROUS ULCERS

ROOTED IN THE BLOOD.

After the age of 45 or 50, when the vital powers are naturally weaker, it is noticed that a hurt of any kind heals slowly and often a very insignificant scratch or bruise becomes a bad ulcer or sore. At this time of life warty growths, moles and pimples that have been on the body almost from birth begin to inflame and fester, and before very long are large eating ulcers.

When a sore or ulcer is slow in healing then you may be sure something is radically wrong with your blood. Some old taint or poison that has been slumbering there for years, is beginning to assert itself, and breaks out and becomes a bad ulcer and perhaps the beginning of Cancer. These old sores are rooted in the blood, and while washes, soaps, salves, etc., keep the surface clean, they are not healing. A blood medicine to purify and strengthen the system is what is needed, and S. S. S. is just such a remedy. No poison is so powerful and no germ so deadly that this great vegetable blood remedy cannot reach it, and ulcers of every kind quickly yield to its wonderful curative properties. If you have an old sore or ulcer, write us all about it, and medical advice or any information you may desire will be given by our physicians without charge.
